COUNCIL PASSES ELECTRIC MEASURE

YELLOW LINE AND COUNCIL LOGGER HEADS

Electric Line General Manager Threatens to Tear Up Tracks Rather Than Accept Insisted West Avenue Route

The city council and Superintendent and General Manager F. W. Coen of the Lorain Street Railway, known as the "Yellow Line," are at locked horns over the granting of a franchise in this city.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Coen met the members of the street railway committee in the council chamber, and Councilman Carson, chairman of the committee told him that the city had dallied with him long enough, and that a satisfactory franchise must be entered into or he would have to tear up his tracks.

In his report of the meeting to the council last evening Mr. Carson said that Mr. Coen absolutely declined to consider the West avenue route as a terminal, and that he now only wanted to lay a single track on Lodi street, leaving the terminal on that street as at present. If this was agreed to Mr. Coen would see that the railway paid it's proportion of paving Lodi street on the same basis as residents of the street. Carson then asked the council how they felt about the Lodi street proposition.

Favor West Avenue

He was informed that the council was already on record as favoring West avenue, but he insisted on knowing whether Lodi street was now favored. He declared the council was making him the goat, and if they wanted a franchise drawn up he wanted to know what route should be followed, as well as what conditions would be required, and he would have a franchise ready in short order. He asked each member if they favored Lodi street, and they all replied that they were on record as favoring West avenue.

Rawson thought that the matter of drawing up a franchise should be left to the council as a whole, and not to the street railway committee, but Councilman Howells thought different. Carson declared he did not want any glory and so moved that the council as a committee as a whole draw up a franchise. This was lost, and a motion was made and passed putting the measure in the hands of the street railway committee and the city solicitor.

"All right," said Carson. "We will have a franchise ready at the next meeting, and if Mr. Coen does not accept the West avenue route, he can tear up his tracks so far as I am concerned. We have been bluffed by him for the past four or five years, and it's time we did business."

Councilman Muller stated that the streets of the city still belonged to the city and not to Mr. Coen. It was time that firm measures should be taken to assert the city's rights.

Plan New Franchise

Mr. Rawson stated that Mr. Coen had bluffed the council for ten years, not four or five, and gave a history of previous conferences with him.

As the matter now stands all of the council favor the West avenue route with a turn out on Tremont street. Before that route can be followed it will be necessary to secure the consent of the property owners, and a snag may result if they cannot be secured. The engineer was also instructed to notify the New York Central to lower the grade under their tracks so that the yellow line could pass under it. The new franchise will be presented at the next meeting and if it is accepted it will then be up to Mayor Jones for approval.

It was stated by Mr. Carson that Mr. Coen declared that the line between here and Lorain had lost $60,000 last year, and that they would tear up their tracks sooner than use the West avenue route favored by the council.

GREEN LINE IS SHUT DOWN FOR OVER AN HOUR

The Southwestern system was tied up for an hour this morning when the large engine at the power house broke down. Coming at 7:30 and lasting until 8:40 it caused many workers to be late to work. Cars were stalled all along the line and many passengers caught passing automobiles to their place of destination. The engine is now working regularly and no further trouble is anticipated.

K PROBER RESIGNS; U.S. INVESTIGATING NUMEROUS MURDERS

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 4.—Leslie Leggett, negro, 35, was shot to death last night in a sparsely settled section on the outskirts of the city, it was revealed today, after having been kidnapped by a party of five white men who drove up to a building in which Leggett roomed. He was forced into the automobile. His body was discovered this morning in a clump of woods.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 4.—St. Clair Adams, New Orleans attorney, who was appointed recently by Governor John M. Parker, as special assistant attorney general for prosecution of persons arrested in connection with the "hooded mob" murders at Mer Rouge, has resigned, it was announced today.

MER ROUGE, La., Jan. 4.—Twenty cavalrymen left here this morning for Bastrop, where they will be stationed during the open hearing which begins tomorrow. They are acting under the direction of Major Roy S. Miller, and are expected to assist Sheriff Carpenter in making arrests.

The United States government, through the department of justice, has thrown an army of federal agents into Louisiana to punish the perpetrators of the infamous "hooded mob" murders of Morehouse parish, International News Service herewith presents exclusively an "inside story" of these murders.

The story is based upon the same facts which led Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana, to make a personal appeal to President Harding for federal aid in solving the crimes. This information also is in the hands of department of justice agents on the ground. While obtained from confidential sources, it ultimately will be written upon legal records of Louisiana when from 15 to 50 citizens of the parish stand trial on charges of murder and being accessories to murder.—Editor's Note.

REPARATIONS PARLEY BREAK IS IMMINENT

French Prepare to Invade Ruhr as Rupture Appears Inevitable; British Delegates to Leave

PARIS, JAN. 4.—THE ALLIED REPARATIONS CONFERENCE BROKE UP IN A DEADLOCK THIS EVENING. THE ALLIES WERE UNABLE TO REACH AN AGREEMENT OWING TO THE DIVERGENCE OF VIEWS HELD BY GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE OVER GERMAN INDEMNITY

Italians in allied reparations conference at Paris introduce compromise proposals in an effort to bring France and England together and save the parley.

Premier Poincare confers with French war minister indicating that plans are afoot for French occupation of the Ruhr at an early date.

Italy proposes a ten billion gold mark international loan to Germany to stabilize mark and help pay reparations.

British officials at London virtually lose hope that collapse of Paris conference could be averted.

Reported on the Paris bourse that civilian engineers were instructed to be in readiness for duty in Ruhr coal fields.

Foresee Collapse

PARIS, Jan. 4.—The allied reparations conference this afternoon reached an unbreakable deadlock which made a rupture inevitable.

The break up of the conference had been regarded as a foregone conclusion due to the wide divergence of views between England and France. This, it is believed, will be the last indemnity conference. The British threaten to withdraw entirely from continental affairs, allowing France, Italy and Belgium to go their own way.

When the conference reconvened at 5:30, Premier A. Bonar Law said there were two alternatives open, acceptance of the British plan or a break up of the meeting.

Premier Poincare issued an "ultimatum" to the conference saying:

"It is useless to continue to talk unless we agree to additional guarantees and sanctions."

WOULD RESTRICT HEAVY LOADS IN CITY

Frank Squires, Oberlin road, addressed the City Council last evening and asked that an ordinance be passed that would protect the city streets from overloading of trucks and heavy vehicles such as traction engines. Oberlin road as far as the B. & O. tracks is now in the city limits, and Mr. Squire stated that frequently heavy overloaded trucks pass over the new pavement there, and that if this practice was not stopped it would result in the destruction of the road in a year. He stated that he had reported several overloaded trucks to the county commissioners and they had taken prompt action. Recently The Universal Crane Co. had a big crane drawn over the road and in spite of the fact that it was in the city, the commissioners had weighed it and discovered it weighed 11 tons, 800 pounds. Mr. Squire believed an ordinance should be passed to protect all city streets and thereby protect the highways from being abused.

Mr. Rawson at once moved that the matter be referred to the street committee and the city solicitor for action, and this was done.

The Burke bill covers all city streets, the same as roads in the country, making an ordinance superfluous.

GERMANY WELCOMES ROCKEFELLER, FORD AS ECONOMIC HEAD

Following is the second and final installment of an interview with Andreas Hermes, German minister of finance, giving the first official explanation of the German viewpoint on reparations as the situation stands today. Herr Hermes, speaking for his government, said that American intervention, even supervision, would be acceptable.—Editor's Note.

(Copyright 1923 by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Germany would welcome John D. Rockefeller or Henry Ford as financial advisor of "economic dictator," to show the government how to lift the nation from its present industrial and financial chaos, it was declared here today by the highest authority.—Minister of Finance Hermes.

Dr. Hermes, in an exclusive interview with International News Service, said that Germany was exploring every avenue in an effort to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the great problems which confront them, chiefly arising from uncertainty over reparations.

"You in America have some very excellent men well fitted to take the European crisis in hand. We would welcome nothing more heartily than that the United States, whose impartiality we trust absolutely, carried out the plan that I have seen suggested, namely appoint a big man to act in an advisory capacity to the government.

"Hoover Best Man."

"The best man in my opinion, of course, would be Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce at Washington. With his organizing genius, his foresight and his deep understanding of economy problems could give tremendous aid. But if Mr. Hoover does not want it why not men like John D. Rockefeller or Henry Ford, men noted throughout the world for their business ability? Mind you, I am not saying this as a plea nor even a suggestion to your government. But I do want to emphasize that Germany would be mighty pleased and grateful if the United States would take the dilemma by the horns.

"Certainly Germany would be most glad to open all her books, answer all questions and give all facilities to enable a clear, thorough survey of the situation. We have nothing to conceal. On the contrary, we welcome the most searching, unbiased investigation of our books."

Minister Hermes dwelt upon the difficulties of the German government's position both internationally and externally.

Continual outside pressure with the threats of ultimatums hanging over it placed it in everlasting

FIND WOMAN PONZI'S HUSBAND IS GUILTY EMBEZZLEMENT CASE

POMEROY, O., Jan. 4.—Found guilty by a jury late last night, George Kraus Sr., husband of Mrs. Susan Kraus, 63, alleged woman "Ponzi" now serving a 20-year-term in Marysville reformatory, today faces a sentence to a term in the penitentiary following his conviction by a jury on an embezzlement charge. The end of the case came very sudden, and was based upon his participation in a "sugar deal" in which Louis Seyfried, Pomeroy grocer, was promised sugar at three cents a pound—one-half the wholesale price at the time.

The defense was based on alleged ignorance on the part of Kraus of his wife's financial transactions, but the state produced 44 notes which bore Kraus' signature.

When D. Curtiss Reed, attorney for the aged defendant, mentioned the name of his wife, Kraus broke into a paroxysm of weeping and was still weeping when the jury returned its verdict.

Charges are still pending against two sons of the couple, Michael and George. Michael is charged with embezzlement of funds of the Meigs Savings and Loan Company, of which he was at one time secretary, while George is charged with embezzlement growing out of other transactions.

HENRY WURST SUED

Ernst & Ernst, Cleveland accountants began suit today against Henry Wurst to recover $1,056.55 for work performed in auditing a set of books.

Under a suspension of the rules the city council last evening granted the Ohio Public Service Co., a raise in their rates amounting to 37 1-2 per cent. over the present rates.

The new rate is the one proposed at the last meeting of the council in place of the proposed Lorain rate which provided for a minimum charge of $1 whether any current was used or not, and which was called a service charge.

Protects Small User

The new ordinance provides for a charge of $1 but consumers can use twenty-five killowatt hours of current for $1, and after that the price raises gradually according to the amount of current consumed. By this plan the small consumer is protected, and the burden of the advance falls upon those who use the larger quantity of current.

There was but little discussion of the measure last evening, and but few citizens were in the lobby. They were given an opportunity to express themselves before the vote was taken, but none of them responded.

Councilman Rawson stated that in view of the fact that a hearing on the increase asked for was scheduled before the State Utilities commission today, he thought in fairness to the citizens that the rate proposed was the best that could be secured, for the Utilities Commission were liable to make it higher, and that to forestall such action he believed it wise to pass the ordinance under a suspension of the rules.

Carson Dissents

Mr. Howells then moved that such action be taken. Before the vote was taken Councilman Carson asked Mr. Johnson of the Ohio Public Servcie Co., if he could not make a 75c minimum rate instead of $1. He was told the company could not do so. "Well, I believe that can be done and I shall not change my opinion," replied Carson.

Mr. Howells replied, "I would like to make it a 50c minimum charge, but if it cannot be done, we will have to do the best we can."

The vote was then taken and all members voted for it except Mr. Carson who stood pat. The measure now goes to Mayor Jones for his approval.

THE LEVY WILL BE REDUCED

The action by the legislature on Tuesday in passing a bill for the abolition of two state tax levies will undoubtedly find approval in the minds of the tax payers of the state. There will be alarm in some sections shown through the fear that the elimination of this .15 of a mill levy for the weak school districts will result in the loss of money which has been raised by this levy.

It would be useless to deny that there was politics, and little but politics, in the haste with which this bill was enacted. The tremendous surplus from the General Revenue fund of the state is due, not to direct taxation, but to the payment by the Public Service Corporations of their percentage of their gross income together with the capital stock tax and some other incidental indirect taxes. This surplus is not due to any economy that has been shown by anybody. Certainly officials in public life, or about to get in, cannot be credited with the general business condition which has resulted in this large income from these sources.

But it enables, however, the state to reduce these two levies as there is sufficient money in the state treasury to meet the amount needed for the weak school districts, and the 5-10th of a mill for road construction which amount would be $5,000,000 for the year. This totals $6,500,000, which amount can be taken from the general revenue fund without seriously depleting that fund.

It was known that Governor-elect Donahey intended to make a recommendation for the elimination of the levies because of the condition of the treasury. He would do this in order to get credit from the voters for being responsible for reducing their taxes. If he had done it, it would have been mere political "bunk."

The legislature, knowing the same things the Governor-elect knew, beat him to it in order to prevent him from getting credit for a thing for which he would be in no way responsible, and incidentally, in view of the fact that the Republicans are in no way responsible for it either, it was pure political "bunk" on the part of the legislature.

The state should congratulate itself, however, that the General Revenue fund is sufficiently large so that their direct taxes can be so reduced.

It was a perfectly obvious thing to do and the natural thing was for the two political groups to try to beat each other to the performance of the obvious, and the Republicans won out.

MIGHT BE WORSE AT THAT

Henry Ford has paid some compliments to other employers at the beginning of the New Year. We like Henry and we think that he has done a wonderful work in the world. We think that his impulses—and he is mostly governed by impulses—are good ones, but we are impressed as he talks about other employers that Henry hates himself. He declares that these others are unfit to be employers, who, instead of giving as high wages as the Ford plant does, do welfare work for their employees.

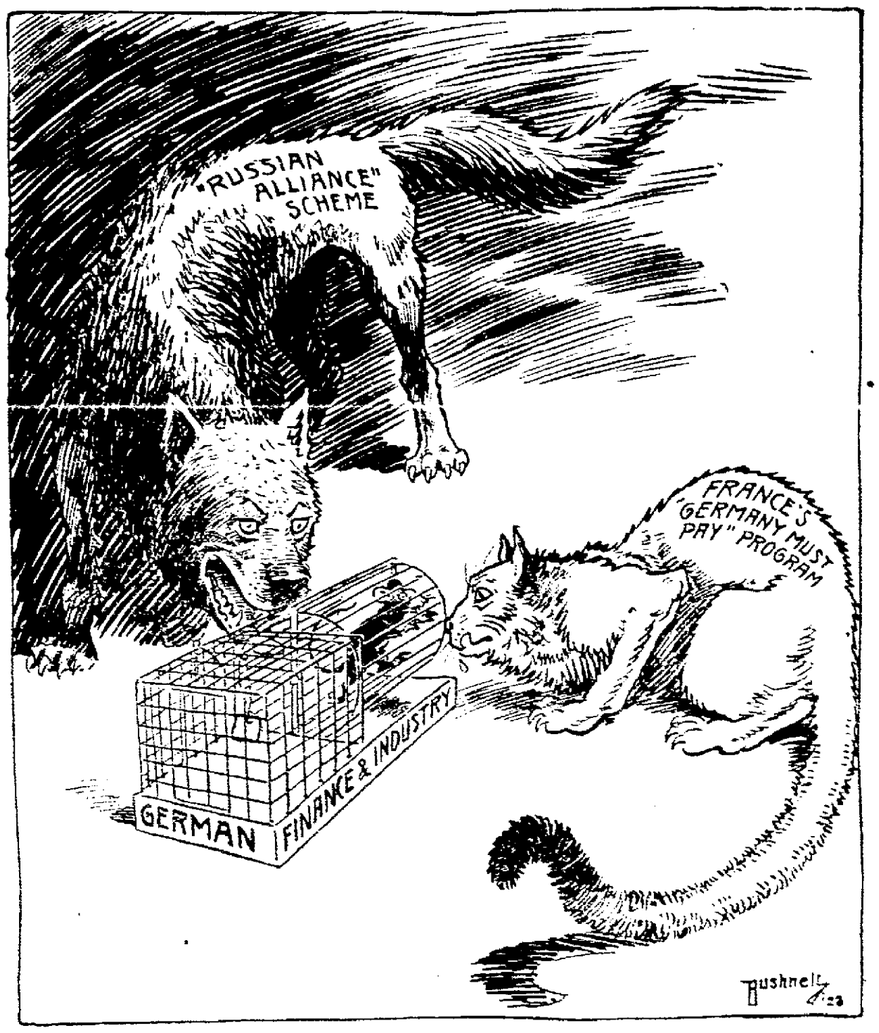

We agree with Mr. Ford that benefits in the way of various forms of welfare work, which are given by corporations to their men had better be given in addition to their wages, leaving them to look after their own personal welfare. We believe this even though they may not look after themselves as well. In the long run it is better so, than to have a paternalistic system operating to destroy the elements in them of independence and self-help.

We do not agree, however, that the men who substitute welfare work for adequate wages are unfit to be employers. The truth is that their efforts to make the lot of their employees better, evinces their fitness rather than proving their unfitness. While such employers, in our judgment are making a mistake, all they need is the demonstration that the other is, in the long run, the better way for their employees, for the development of democracy, and of the individual in the democracy, and he will conform to it. He certainly comes nearer to being a man who should be an employer than the one who pays equally as low wages as he, and does not give a whoop about his employee afterwards.

Some one suggests that Mayor Kohler indicates egotism in his report, but you have got to acknowledge that he is a real mayor and that he is giving Cleveland a better administration than it has had in many long years.

We notice that George Harvey is back on a visit, and he says Great Britain will pay what she owes America. The condition would probably be that Harvey should not return, but they were too considerate to mention the fact to him before he left.

KOMICAL TELEGRAMS

By JIM ARMITAGE, Himself

The Rotary Club had their annual "Steppin' Out" party last night. They put on a minstrel show n'everything.

C. E. Lozier was the interlocutor and when he winds up he sure slings a wicked vocabulary.

Phillips told about knowing Glade Thomas when he didn't have a nickel, down and out and so close to "being on his uppers" that he could step on a dime and tell whether it was head or tail.

Then Lozier said, "Now Mister Savage you tell one." And Charlie said, "Why did they have to build a fence around Sweden?" and of course the interlocutor says, "Why did they have to build a fence around Sweden?" and Charlie said, "To keep Stockholm."

They had their own orchestra. Al Hannaford played the fiddle and it's the first time I ever knew that Charlie Tucker played a zither.

They had a radio concert. But it was a ladies' party and you couldn't expect to hear one radio when it had to talk against fifty ladies.

Never saw so many chinamen in my life—and Albers sure does know how to cook 'em.

Vic Woodward was there in a dress suit. I thought he was advertising a rent company but I was all wrong.

"Doc" Hubbell was one of the ends. He told about Moe Wiser coming up to his office to have his head examined. First he thought he had brain fever, but he examined farther and found that if all Moe's brains were dynamite—he wouldn't have enough to blow his hat off.

Jim Thomas commented on the paper towels that have replaced the old fashioned roller ones in the Y. M. C. A. Hudson claimed it was against the law to have roller towels, but it didn't apply in his case, because theirs was hanging there long before the law was passed.

Loomis sang "Homesick," and they wouldn't have had to announce the name "song" that's just how it made you feel.

"Link" Werner got lost. They couldn't find him for a couple of hours. A fellow came in and they thought it was him. Finally the "missing link" returned and all was well.

It got kind of cold. Guess something went wrong with the furnace. Then Webber sang a song about "Carolina" and everybody had to take off their coats.

Funny thing about them Rotarians, they call everybody by their first name, ladies and all. But they call some of 'em different names than that—when they get home.

EXCESSIVE PUBLIC FORCE MENACE TO STATE," SAYS HILL.

"The only force that can be relied upon to serve the purpose of the state is civilly organized force," said David Hill, former U. S. ambassador to the Netherlands and Germany.

DAVID J. HILL

"Civilly organized force is force related to the needs of law and order, permeated by the ideas of law and order and held responsible to them by sustained civil authority. Without this the modern state becomes impossible and any augmentation of public force beyond the public needs, and long continued separation of it from the jural consciousness of the nation, must inevitably tend to render the state less potential in the accomplishments of its purpose. I believe that public force in excess of what is justified by public necessity is in itself a menace to the state."

"KEMAL'S CAUSE WEAK WITH MOHAMMEDAN," SAYS INDIAN JOURNALIST.

No matter what happens between England and Mustapha Kemal Pasha at the Dardanelles, there is little danger of a Mohammedan uprising in India in support of the Kemalists, according to Rustom Rustomjee, a journalist of Bombay, India, who is touring in this country.

"Kemal weakened his own cause so far as the Mohammedans in India were concerned," said Rustomjee recently, "by standing for a separation of the church and state. The majority of Mohammedans will not follow him in any fight against the Sultan of Turkey, who is the head of the church as well as of the state. There are about 75,000,000 Mohammedans in India in a population of 350,000,000. If hostilities come between Kemal and England there probably will be sporadic outbreaks in India, but nothing in the nature of a general uprising.

"I have just returned from a long trip through the Indian empire, and I have never seen things there more calm and peaceful. I had a talk with Gandhi, and I must say I was not much impressed with his 'spiritual depths.' His power has absolutely gone since the British jailed him. You know, he represented himself as an incarnation of Rama, one of the Indian gods. When he was arrested, and the masses realized that Gandhi was no god, but a plain common man and an agitator, they lost faith in him and the cause he was supporting."

Rustomjee said that India has progressed more in the last ten years than in any hundred preceding. This is due to the World war, which cut off foreign imports and forced the Indians to look to themselves for manufactured articles they had been in the habit of getting from abroad, he said.

The population of Rumania before the war was about eight millions, but with the increased territory is now over eighteen millions.

MARGARET LINDSEY WILLIAMS.

Miss Margaret Lindsey Williams, the young Welsh artist, who has a galaxy of medals from the Royal Academy of London and a remarkable collection of paintings to her credits, is now in this country painting President Harding's portrait. The general style of the portrait, which is to be presented to the London headquarters of the English-Speaking Union, has been arranged. It is to be a three-quarter length and there is awaiting it in Miss William's London studio a very beautiful Florentine frame.

M. L. WILLIAMS

Daughter of a South Wales ship broker, Miss Williams has had a phenomenally successful career, and by general consent she now figures in the front rank of living British portrait painters. She first studied art at the Gardiff Technical College and then at the Royal Academy. She subsequently studied in Italy, France and Holland.

Chief among her academy successes was the gold medal and traveling scholarship, the blue ribbon of the Royal Academy of Arts, for a historical picture entitled "The City of Refuge." She also secured the Creswick prize, a much coveted honor.

Another distinction which is Miss William's is that of being the one artist who ever had a studio in Westminister Abbey. She recently completed there a large scene in the Abbey on the occasion of the great Welsh service held in 1918. The canvas which measures eighteen feet by ten contains about a hundred and eight portraits of distinguished persons including Queen Alexandra, the Princess Victoria and Lloyd George. It is to be presented to the city of Cardiff by Lord Glanely. Miss Williams will soon do a portrait of Colonel Harvey.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE WORLD'S WANDERERS

Tell me, thou Star, whose wings of light
Speed thee in thy fiery flight,
In what cavern of the night
Will thy pinions close now?

Tell me, Moon, thou pale and gray
Pilgrim of heaven's homeless way
In what depth of night or day
Seekest thou repose now?

Weary Wind, who wanderest
Like the world's rejected guest,
Hast thou still some secret nest
On the tree or billow?

—Percy Bysshe Shelley

TO CELIA

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss but in the cup
And I'll not look for wine.
The thirst that from the soul doth rise
Doth ask a drink divine;
But might I of Jove's nectar sup,
I would not change for thine.

I sent thee late a rosy wreath,
Not so much honoring thee
As giving it a hope that there,
It could not withered be;
But thou thereon didst only breathe
And sentst it back to me;
Since when it grows, and smells, I swear
Not of itself—but thee!

Famous Apostle of Auto Suggestion Arrives in New York—Says It Is Not Divine Treatment

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—M. Emile Coue, internationally famed apostle of auto suggestion, stepped ashore today on his first visit to America. The chubby little former druggist whose "day-by-day" formula swept him from the obscurity of retirement in Nancy, France, into world prominence, disembarked in snow-clad Manhattan after a stormy voyage which tossed and buffed the liner Majestic and delayed her arrival a day and a half.

Besieged by a hundred newspaper men, the little old man with grey mustache and grey vandyke appeared perplexed but apparently eager to answer questions. He peered out with keen, shrewed, blue eyes at his questioners and made every effort to grant information they sought. He was handicapped in this by interference of members of the Coue committee, in charge of his lectures here, who interrupted his answers. "I will not discuss the medical profession while in America," he said. "But it is my greatest desire to see auto suggestion made part of the regular medical school program."

Addressed by one of the newspapermen as "doctor," M. Coue immediately protested: "I am not 'doctor.' I am Monsieur. Please tell me that. I do not treat. I help people treat themselves."

He said he personally would conduct no clinics in America, that his purpose was to spread his teachings and methods in this country. He said a regularly authorized clinic would be instituted in New York but his answer to the question of who would head it was interrupted by a member of the committee.

M. Coue explained that his discovery of the value of the auto suggestive method of improvement and treatment of diseases was made while he was studying hypnosis. He found hypnosis powerful aid in overcoming ailments.

"I do not invoke divine aid in my treatments," he said. "But if a person has a strong religious faith, it undobtedly is an aid to them in treating themselves."

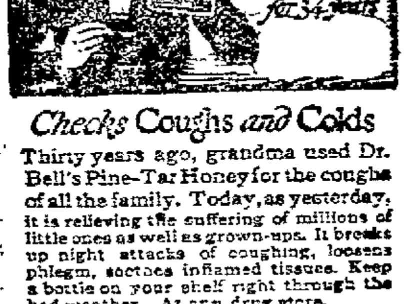

He said he was convinced of the value of the treatment in organic diseases as well as in nervous complaints and in overcoming criminal and other evil tendencies.

HOLD CHAUFFEUR IN DEATH WEALTHY MAN

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 4.—Percy A. Page, son of a wealthy Norfolk real estate operator, has been exonerated from charges that he killed Harry Quayle Williams, son of a wealthy New York hotel proprietor, it was announced here this morning by Chief of Detectives Petty, after an all night investigation into the case.

Williams came to his death, it was said, from being pushed from the running board of a taxicab by Arthur R. Lambert, a chauffeur, who was taken into custody this morning on a charge of manslaughter and held in $1,500 bail.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 4.—Announcement has been made by Governor-elect Donahey that he will appoint Dr. J. E. Monger, 45, Columbus, formerly of Greenville, as state health director. The position pays $6,500 a year. Dr. Monger was state registrar of vital statistics three years, beginning in 1917.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The Department of Justice is ready to press for more indictments in its war graft investigation it was learned today. conflict with "bitter enders" at home, while the strife at home cost the government prestige abroad.

"Owing to Germany's recurring failure to get relief," continued Minister Hermes, "and owing to the terrible economic situation which has reached a point bordering upon absolute debacle, a pernicious menace because, while it is quite comprehensible from a sentimental viewpoint, it is dead wrong from the standpoint of right.

Derides Occupation.

"We do not want to weich. We do not want to squeal. We are not seeking to evade our obligations. We lost the war; therefore, we have to pay. But we want to pay sensibly. We cannot be expected to commit suicide in paying and we will not. Through four long, terrible, starving years we have done nothing but pay, pay, pay, fulfill, fulfill, fulfill, without once knowing how long it was going to continue.

"The consequences of our honest good will and sincere efforts to meet all our obligations are widespread misery, systematic starvation, undernourishment extending to millions, devastation of our money, paralysis of our world trade and party strife at home. On top of it all is the indescribable hardship of military occupation. Now we demand two things, a breathing spell and a denite certainty as to how much we shall have to pay."

K Prober Resigns

held them captives for hours in a secluded woodland rendezvous and then tortured them to death.

The bodies, hacked, mangled, crushed and mutilated, were tossed into Lake La Fourche under cover of darkness to hide the crime. Almost four months later the lake gave up its dead revealing a baffling, horrifying, double murder.

This, in brief, tells the story of Louisiana's "hooded mob" murders as revealed today to International News Service.

The so called "hooded mob" was composed of men who wore hoods and carefully disguised clothing. Its members undeniably were knights of the Ku Klux Klan, though there is no proof as yet that they acted upon orders of the klan itself. Its leaders at no time, however, denied they were klansmen even though their victims openly charged them with membership in the order.

There were possibly fifty men in the gathering which kidnaped Daniels and Richards, and three other men as they were returning here from a barbecue at Bastrop on that ill-fated afternoon.

A mile of the narrow and wood fringed roadway was guarded by hooded members of the mob and a score of returning automobiles were stopped before Daniels and Richards were found and taken captives. Three others, J. L. Daniels, white haired father of Watt Daniels; W. C. Andrews and Tom Davenport, a youth, also were kidnaped. The mob carried them in motor cars by circuitous route to a woodland spot beyond Bastrop.

Implicates Ex-Mayor

When the cavalcade was halted, leaders of the mob questioned Davenport, but no punishment was inflicted upon him. The aged Daniels came next.

"What do you know about the attempt to kill Dr. B. M. McKoin?" he was asked (Dr. McKoin is now under arrest in Baltimore.)

When the white haired Daniels denied knowledge of the attack he was flogged. As his father's cries rang out, the younger Daniels helplessly bound, cursed his captors.

Andrews, a robust young man, came next. He too was questioned about the attempt on Dr. McKoin's life. When he likewise denied implication he was seized, thrown on the ground, his flesh bared, and a huge strap wielded across his quivering form. Andrews screamed in pain and struggled to evade the lashes, but blow after blow fell until his flesh had been beaten black.

The mob then loaded the captives in motor cars, the younger Daniels and Richards being placed on a truck. This truck, with a heavily armed guard, set out for Collingston, a cross roads town near Mer Rouge. It stopped in the town for a moment and townspeople gazed on the helplessly bound forms of Daniels and Richards. It then moved off in the night.

The other three prisoners were brought to the town's edge later and released, a lone masked man setting them free. In the shadows, however, lurked a score of guards.

The captors of Daniels and Richards, meanwhile, drove into the rolling swamp lands to a previously selected rendezvous. They were taken out of the car and carried into the woods, where a grim "death circle" formed about them.

A voice spoke out charging both with knowledge of the attack on Dr. McKoin. Both denied the charge.

The "death circle" moved closer to Daniels. Two men grasped him and beat him with clenched fists. As he fell beneath the rain of blows he was dragged to his feet to be beaten anew. The voice with authority questioned him again and this veteran of the world war, who faced death overseas with a supreme courage, showed the same stout heart when facing death in that tragic wilderness. Blinded by the hood dropped over his head, Daniels turned to face the questioning voice and cursed his captors.

Form Death Circle

The "death circle" conferred in whispered words. The voice with authority spoke again and Daniels was "quartered" upon the ground with picket ropes. The hooded figure stepped forth, a surgical instrument in his hand and amid Daniels' horrified screams, he slashed at the helpless youth. The blood spurted as Daniel fainted in an agony of torture.

The hooded figure [illegible] and slashed again and [illegible] arose, young Daniels had di[illegible] under the most frightful of punishments.

It may have been that the human butcher lost his nerve, but none other in the "death circle" moved to stop him after that first frightful slash. With Daniels mutilated form stretched on the ground, the "death circle" conferred again. The [illegible] to Richards and the voice with authority spoke the charge against him.

[illegible] and fell across his body and he fell under an avalanche of blows. Two, three, four robed figures struck at his bruised form on the ground. They beat and beat and beat at the crunching flesh, some using clubs.

After many minutes the blood-spattered group turned away from the frightful objects within the circle. The bodies were smashed and mangled, the heads beaten to a pulp. Death had come as a welcome relief to Richards.

The "death circle" conferred again. The voice with authority spoke and a hooded figure approached the victims. Using a surgical instrument with care, this man, with practiced stroke, slashed hands and feet from the mutilated corpses. The remnants then were gathered into sacks. The "death circle" diminished. Those left sped into the night with the "remains."

At Lake LaFourche the "death circle" stopped. The two torsos were weighted with iron wheels and the trousers of both men were cut into ropes with which to bind the weights to the sagging bodies. The "death circle" carried the bodies onto a ferryboat tied at the edge of the lake. "Remains" were tossed over its side into a slimy, watery grave sixty feet beneath the surface.

The "death circle" gathered for its final conference. The voice with authority spoke a mighty oath. The circle replied in kind and into the black night the hooded figures vanished, with "murder" written for eternity across the pages of their lives.

COUNCIL VOTES TO IMPROVE STREETS

OBERLIN, Jan. 4. Mr. Sheridan brought forth the following proposition before council—that he would buy and give to Oberlin, on approval of council, from six to ten waste paper cans of a new, improved type, if council would permit him to make a profit by the placing of merchants' advertising on the sides of these depositories. The matter was referred to the street committee.

An ordinance passed, after a suspension of rules, determining to proceed with the improving of North Park street and Grafton street, subject to the approval of the solicitor.

The present solicitor's term expired this month, council decided to enter into a contract for another year, on the same terms, with Mr. Summers.

The matter of forbidding parking of automobiles near railroad crossing, East College, due to the dangerous situation created there by the stopping of street cars and the narrowness of the street was discussed.

Mrs. Brill, who on account of illness is no longer able to continue her duties as matron of the rest room, is to be succeeded soon by another.

OBERLIN, Jan. 4—It appears that there will be no shortage of 1923 automobile licenses in Oberlin. 500 are on hand.

EXCHANGE CLUB HOLDS CRITICISM CONFERENCE

OBERLIN, Jan. 4.—The Exchange club held its regular meeting yesterday and the subject up for discussion was, "What I Like and Dislike About Oberlin." The members were quite frank in their statements and yet those who approved were in the majority. Thus it seems that Oberlin's fine points greatly outnumber its bad ones. The chief dislikes were in regard to the cemetery, pavement on East College street on the road leading north out of town, the gas supply especially in cold weather, the street lighting, and the taste of the water. But all these, according to general opinion were as nothing in comparison to Oberlin beauty, its trees and campus, its spirit and environment, its educational advantages and its well being.

TWO SUITS FILED

Two small damage suits on account of automobile accidents were filed in court today. William Field began action against Dr. R. C. Carlson, stating that on April 2, 1922 his daughter was driving a car on the road to Akron. She stopped and while the car was standing on the right side of the road the defendant ran his car into it from the rear causing damage for which $300 is asked.

Earl Fuller started suit against The Lakeside Biscuit Co., stating that the defendant's car ran into his machine at the corner of West River street and Woodford avenue, this city, on November 10, causing $300 damage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Free seeds were beaten in the House today by the decisive vote of 173 to 85. The fight will be carried to the Senate. The appropriation asked for free seeds was $360,000.

PROBATE JUDGE INFORMS CLUB ABOUT OFFICE

The Kiwanis Club held a well attended meeting at noon today and among the out of town guests was R. M. Claire of Lorain. Arrangements are being made for four inter-city meetings in the near future. The attendance prize was given by Chas. Persons, of the West Side Lumber Co., and it was won by A. L. Jackson.

Judge H. C. Wilcox, of the juvenile court gave a fine address, on the under privileged child. He stated that he had handled some 1500 children, and that from his observations the parents were many times more to blame than the children. The old law of children obeying their parents was in the discard, and the child gives orders to the parent. The farm has no charm for the child of today and they leave as soon as possible and go to the city where they do as they please and often get into trouble. The parent of today fails often to instil good principles into the children and they follow their own code, mistaken though it be.

BODIES 400 CHINESE SENT TO HOME LAND

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 4.—The strangest cargo ever to sail from this port left today on board the steamer Esther Dollar. In the hold of the vessel are the bodies of 400 Chinese being shipped back to China for burial.

An ancient Chinese legend says that if a man is buried in a foreign country his spirit will roam the world in torment until his body is taken home. Because of this the numerous "tongs" of New York have ceased their interminable warfare long enough to disinter the bodies of their countrymen and send them back to the land of their birth.

AMHERST WATER CONTRACT IS RENEWED

The City Council last evening authorized the service director to renew the contract with the Water Works Co., to supply them with water for another three-year term. The price is to be the same as formerly, the water all being run through a meter, and the Amherst company paying for it according to the amount of water used, the same as any other large consumer. The Amherst company maintains its own lines and the city simply delivers the water to it.

LORAIN MAN BLAMES WIFE IN SUICIDE

LORAIN, Jan. 4.—Mike Zivcic, 37, of 2327 East 29th street, committed suicide this morning shortly before ten o'clock by shooting himself in the head with a 32 calibre revolver.

Zivcic shot his wife some three years ago, but she recovered. Today he told his wife he was going to commit suicide and asked her whether she wanted to go with him. She told him "No." He then walked into the next room and as his wife followed him he placed the gun to his head, fired it, and died instantly.

"Last will to all members of family. Take care of my children. If Mrs. Lutich was here it would be easier for me to die, because she ruined my wife and making money for herself and losing her everything letting them go to the dogs."

The body was taken to a funeral parlor, and Coroner Perry gave a verdict of suicide.

CITY COUNCIL MINOR ACTION

The following minor items were cared for by the City Council last evening:

A new sewer is being put in on Shear street. It developed that this is not a city street, but a private driveway to the canning factory. The city agreed to pay its proportion of the cost, if the property owners would sign waivers.

The Standard Oil Co was granted permission to install an extra oil tank on their property on Seventeenth street, under the supervision of the fire chief.

A resident of Clinton avenue requested an electric light at the far end of the street, and it was referred to the lighting committee.

It was decided to resurface Lake avenue from the end of the city pavement to the city limits. The same material to be used as the county has laid on the Lorain extension.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quilion Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

WESTERN GOLD RUSH RECALLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Fifty years ago this month occurred one of the most memorable events in American history—the discovery of gold in California. It was on January 19, 1848 that a laborer in the hire of James Wilson Marshall, while employed near Coloma, in El Dorado county, found the first glittering nuggets of the precious metal.

The land was owned by John A. Sutter, a noted California pioneer, a man of great enterprise and great faith in the future of the country that he [illegible]. When the discovery of gold was made Sutter was already a rich man. He expected, of course, [illegible] wealth beyond the wildest dreams, but the discovery of gold on his property [illegible] proved his [illegible] ruin. His valuable ranch properties were overrun by gold-diggers and his [illegible] deserted him to hunt for the precious metal. Sutter finally found himself in actual want and the California legislature granted him a pension of $250 a month.

One of the most exciting periods in the United States of [illegible] was the wild rush of people from the eastern part of the country to California following the announcement of the [illegible] discovery of gold. It looked as if the faces of all eastern people were turned west through the exaggerated stories that were published of the vast quantities of the yellow metal that were everywhere in evidence. The height of the excitement was reached when on Dec. 5, 1848, President Taylor announced the discovery in his message. The abundance of gold was such, he said, as could hardly be believed were it not for the report of officers of the public service who had seen the mines.

The first question that entered the mind of the eastern prospector was how to reach the diggings. Till spring came the overland route was closed. But the way by sea was open and to dwellers on the seaboard was far the better.

Then began a series of most unusual advertisements in the newspapers. Manufacturers of rubber goods advertised tents, beds, gold bags and camp outfits. One publisher got out a book containing fifty-four engravings of implements used in washing gold from sand. A manufacturer advised all going to the gold country to take along one of his gold washing machines. Such advertisements as "An oyster house will be sold low; proprietor is going to California," and "For sale, for a hundred dollars, half a light, easy business that pays a handsome profit, as the advertiser is goingg to California," became common.

Every ship, brig, schooner or sloop that was half fit to go to sea was scraped, painted, fitted with bunks or cabins and advertised as an A1, fair sailing, copper bottomed, copper nailed vessel, bound for San Francisco direct or via Chagres. Before the middle of December four ships loaded with adventurers left New York, and six others were to sail in a few days.

Many went out as individuals, while thousands joined companies or associations which chartered or bought ships. Many associations chartered ships and sent them around the Horn, while they journeyed overland. Many of these associations had odd titles, as, for instance, "the New York Yellow Fever Company."

By the end of January, 1849, eighty vessels had set sail for San Francisco via Cape Horn, fourteen for Chagres and two for Vera Cruz, carrying, all told 5,700.

Early in March the great emigration overland began, and scores of companies and thousands of men attached to no company set off for the gold fields. In less than three weeks, it is said, 2,850 wagons crossed the Mississippi at one point. The plains, it was said, for miles and miles resembled a great tented field. Toward autumn the first of the overland emigrants began to cross the mountains. In less than two years after the discovery of gold close to 100,000 emigrants found their way to California in search of the yellow metal.

"SHEIK" BANDITS WEEP AFTER CAPTURE

Five young men, clad in the very latest styles, hair "slicked" back and presenting a very "sheikish" appearance, have been arrested in Chicago and are said to have confessed to twenty-five robberies. At first they were unconcerned about their arrest, but when their mothers faced them they burst into tears. Several of the lads are high school students.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt was a heart broken woman today when rehearsals of Sacha Guitry's new play opened and she was unable, on account of illness, to fill the stellar role which had been set aside for her.

MIDDLEPORT, Jan. 4.—A two-days meeting of the Meigs County Good Roads Association has been called at the court house for January 9-10. At that time a complete program for general road improvement over Meigs county during the coming year will be taken up.

No strictly religious Moorish woman will allow any man but her husband to see her face.

Theatres

Grand—"Love Never Dies," is a story of the small town with all its bickerings, gossip, decrees and how obdurate parents are but weaklings when pitted against love that refuses to be shut off. Even time and distance are but paper barriers when it comes to rekindling the spark of an undying affection.

American—"Man From Hell's River," is a story of the great Northwest, in which there is intrigue, a desperate outlaw who sees this sweetheart married to another, a tremendous fight for the girl, and the devotion of a big dog more wolf than anything else.

Colonial—Quincy Adams Sawyer has made a hit on the screen, and thousands of delighted spectators have seen him portrayed as true to life as it is humanly possible. See the country store, and it will remind the older people of many such stores they were familiar with years ago. It is a quaint, old-fashioned production with an heart interest story back of it.

Dreamland—A new picture with a lot of active, interesting characters and a plot that keeps you guessing until the finish. This is one of the best pictures seen here in some time. There is also one of those funny comedies.

ELYRIA, BELLEVUE TO OPEN LEAGUE SCHEDULE FRIDAY

TALL BALL TOSSERS FROM BELLEVUE TO FURNISH OPPOSITION FOR ELYRIA HIGH FRIDAY NIGHT ON Y. M. C. A.—FORWARD KOPPES UNABLE TO PLAY FRIDAY—HIGH SCHOOL BAND TO FURNISH MUSIC

By "ED" HENNINGS

Basketball fans of hereabouts and elsewhere will receive the first course of the cage menu Friday night at the local Y. M. C. A. when the "six footers" from Bellevue invade Elyria and lock horns with the White and Crimson sphere throwers. Coach Peabody's cagers have been receiving daily and likewise liberal applications of practice on the 'Y' floor and if their work in practice is any indication they will be in a fine mettle when Friday arrives.

Bellevue comes here with their 1922 team intact and that one fact is enough to insure a real exhibition of basketball. Elyria High will be represented by a stronger team this season then the one of 1922.

Show Improvement

Elyria High has played two games to date gaining a 50-50 break. Mansfield handed them a 30-17 defeat but they sprung the unexpected and made a good start for 1923 by emerging on the big end of a 26-22 count when they faced the local 'Y' quintet on New Year's night. For the benefit of those who are not in on the know we wish to state that the 'Y' team represents the cream of basketball in the city. Any five that can tie the 'Y' team to a tree must show class all the way.

The Mansfield game showed up a weakness in the Elyria team, inability to play a hard, pace setting game from whistle to gun. The game played New Year's night produced the other extreme as they showed mid-season punch. If that punch is permanent Bellevue will find they have run up against something well worth while.

Bellevue Strong

Bellevue is by no means a weak sister. Coach Fulton has his 1922 Blue and White squad intact as the June graduation failed to put a dent in the squad. The Bellevue outfit have not only played together in High school but also worked together as youngsters in 'kid' teams and grade teams in Grammar school. It doesn't require a pair of eye glasses to see that the team-work of the Terminal Town boys will be very highly developed. They played with such class and aggressiveness last year that they finished high in the League Standing. It is a wide open secret that Bellevue is out to capture the bunting this year!

Locals Lose Men

Elyria was not so lucky as Old Man Graduation took away Center Guthman and Guard Crowe. Coach Peabody, however, has developed several men who are filling these places very acceptably. Captain Squire with Houserman, Dangerfield and Heinzerling are guards of the first rating. Peabody has plenty of forward material in Koppes. Halpin, Vessey, Horan and Braddon. The center berth has narrowed down to Milanoff and West. Each has played one game and either may start Friday.

The one disappointment to the team is the enforced absence of Koppes, last year's big point getter, due to sickness. 'Deke' has been out of the lineup during the holidays with an infection of the ear. Not only the Coach but the student body and squad are earnestly hoping that 'Deke' will soon be back at his regular berth.

Band to Furnish Music

An innovation this season will be the playing of the new High school band. This organization has agreed to play at all the home games. The band under the direction of Miss Thompson is [illegible] doing some classy work and the basketball followers will not miss their 'Radio' while at the games listening to this [illegible] club.

While the [illegible] work of the Technical [illegible] is being rushed [illegible] as possible [illegible] ready for the first [illegible]. Due to the courtesy of the 'Y' [illegible] played [illegible] game Friday night will start at 7:30 sharp so the Bellevue team can make early connections back to Bellevue. Admission [illegible] thirty cents.

Following is the probable lineup:

Bellevue		Elyria
Aigler	L F	Braddon
Mitchell	R F	Halpin
Krebs	C	West
Barth	L G	Squire
Sprau	R G	Houserman

CLEVELANDERS DEFEATED BY ELYRIA TEAM

Locals Win Swimming Contest by Score of 32 to 27

The Y. M. C. A. swimming team last night displayed the best swimming that they have been able to perform this season [illegible] in so doing [illegible] to down the strong Central "Y" Junior swimming team of Cleveland.

The Elyria boys started their best night of the season by copping the first event of the evening in the 80 yard relay race and winning in good time. Keeping up the good work all through the evening they won by a five point margin.

Every event was so closely contested that it was difficult for the judges to pick the winner in the event. While Elyria was winning the meet they only won two first places and Cleveland won five. Elyria also won six second places and four third places. Cleveland won one second and two third places. Elyria's consistent scoring in point places enabled them to defeat the Cleveland swimmers although Elyria only won two of the seven first places.

Elyria swimmers are now just getting into their stride and should come through with several other victories within a short while. All of the local team did splendid work and upheld their end of the meet.

Following are the results of the meet:

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way Mrs. Barker Disposed of Angry Dr. Pettit.

I FELT like a conspirator in a cinema third reel as I stole down the hall behind Mrs. Barker and Dr. Pettit. But the conviction was strong upon me that the chatelaine of the hostelry, exasperated by the physician's demand that she reveal Dicky's supposed hiding place, meant to stage something unpleasant for him.

There was no necessity for my accompanying them that I could see, and I would have remained in the hall but for the peremptory signalling nod which Mrs. Barker gave me. But I could not deny that my curiosity was glad of her summons, although I meant to keep Dr. Pettit in ignorance of my presence if I possibly could manage it.

Down the empty hall, through the dining-room, also empty, into the kitchen where the sulky maid gave us a startled, curious stare, through another door into a dark, short hall, I followed the angry physician and the imperturbable Mrs. Barker.

And when the lady, stopping before a dimly outlined door, said: "Here you are," in a low voice which was the essence of feminine yielding to peremptory masculinity, I flattened myself against the wall, and held my breath, hoping the physician would not guess my proximity.

"Come out of there, Graham," Dr. Pettit called, his voice filled with menacing anger.

"He can't hear you through that door," Mrs. Barker said smoothly. "It's too thick."

"Open it then," the physician said curtly.

She evidently had the key ready, for I heard the turning of it in the lock, and the door swung open. The physician fairly plunged into the room, and then, in the dim light, I saw Mrs. Barker bend forward and pull the door to, heard the click as the key turned, and the hoarse, suddenly muffled shout from Dr. Pettit which told his comprehension that he had been tricked.

Mrs. Berker's Triumph.

"There," Mrs. Barker said composedly as she walked toward me, apparently unheeding the muffled pounding upon the door she had just closed. "He'll have a chance to cool off."

She re-entered the kitchen, closing and locking the heavy door shutting off the room from the little dark hall, and paying no attention to the wide-eyed amazement of her sulky kitchen maid, she stood listening beside it for two or three minutes.

"You can't hear anything, can you?" she asked me.

"Not a sound," I answered, and, indeed, the two doors with the hall space between made the room beyond soundproof. I was sure that Dr. Pettit had not yet ceased shouting and pounding—he was far too persistent a person to desist so soon—but he evidently might be in the "dungeon cell" of blessed "Pinafore" memory for any chance he might have of being heard.

"Then we'll go back to the hall," she said, imperturbable as ever, and I followed her back to her desk, with my respect and admiration for this mountain woman increasing with every step. I could visualize now the stories of the pioneer women of the country's early history, which before always had seemed somewhat apocryphal to me. Mrs. Barker, I was sure, would have held her own before any savage Indian or panther.

"Where Did You Put Him?"

"How long do you want me to keep him in there?" she asked, as she reached her desk. "It doesn't make any difference to me, although he'll find it quite chilly."

"Where did you put him?" I breathed, and I fancy my face showed the somewhat awed admiration which was mine.

"In the root cellar," she returned. "All the mountain homes have them, but ours is especially large on account of the house being built spang up against the cliff. There's no possible way of his getting out except through the doors I just locked, and nobody can hear him no matter how much he yells or swears—the recording angel ought to be busy just now—"

"He won't freeze—for the temperature doesn't get that low—and I noticed he had a fur driving coat and gloves, so he won't get any serious harm. But when he comes out he'll probably be ready to be civil—if he doesn't murder me first. But I don't allow anybody to bulldoze me the way he started in to do without giving 'em a lesson of some kind. So it's up to you how long I keep him there. Don't tell me where you're going—that is the town—of course, I know you're going to the other road. I'll send him back to Caldwin, shan't I, when I finally let him out?"

"Yes, that will be best," I agreed. "And I should think a half-hour would give us a good start."

"I'll just double that," she said grimly, "and I'll telephone Tim Boyce to keep his mouth shut as to which way you went. But you'd better not waste any more time getting away from here."
